

THE JOSHUA DOUGLAS DAVIS FOUNDATION

A Legacy of Patriotism and Service

A BIRTHDAY LEGACY: Foundation Set to Launch July 21st

Community Feature Announcement

YERINGTON, NV — On July 21, 2026, the Mason Valley community will mark what would have been the 33rd birthday of Joshua Douglas Davis. While his life was tragically cut short, his father, Douglas Edward Davis, is ensuring that Joshua's spirit of service is institutionalized through the official launch of the Joshua Douglas Davis Foundation (JDDF).

"Joshua didn't just love his country; he lived his values through helping others. The JDDF is built to continue that work—to serve as a guardian for those who served us."

Patriotism in Action

Joshua was defined by a quiet, steadfast patriotism. He believed in an America that looked out for its neighbors. The Foundation is the realization of that legacy, focusing on veteran-centric initiatives and community resilience.

The Mission: The Joshua Standard

The Foundation's primary objective is the "Pocatello Haven" project, a high-precision initiative focused on 100% Veteran Housing Success. By combining technical security with human compassion, the Foundation provides housing solutions that are secure, autonomous, and dignified.

- Veteran Housing: Targeted goals for established housing nodes prioritizing veteran dignity.

- Infrastructure Resilience: Utilizing NIST-level digital security to protect data and community assets.
- Memorial Restoration: Restoring the honors of those overlooked by systemic failures.

The July 21st Announcement

The choice of Joshua's birthday for the official launch is a deliberate transition from the search for justice to the work of restoration. Currently in its build phase, the Foundation is securing operational nodes and preparing for a national rollout.

As the countdown to July 21st begins, the Foundation invites the community to join the movement to honor a legacy of helping others.
